10 x ONE HOUR | HISTORICAL DRAMA | HUNGARIAN, GERMAN, ITALIAN, AND OTHERS

One of the most epic European TV productions of all time. From acclaimed producer Robert Lantos (SUNSHINE, THE SWEET HEREAFTER, BARNEY'S VERSION, EASTERN PROMISES, CRIMES OF THE FUTURE).

RISE OF THE RAVEN

The 15th century. Fearless army commander János Hunyadi devotes his life to defending Europe against an Ottoman invasion. His life is plagued by scandal, political power plays, and conspiracies between noble families from Italy, Poland, Austria, Serbia, and Hungary. His strongest allies are the women in his life: Erzsébet, the wife who not only stands by him, but fights alongside him, and Mara, his first love, who breaks his heart by becoming lead concubine in Sultan Murad's court. When the Ottoman Empire mobilizes an army of unprecedented size to march west with the objective of conquering the Vatican and Europe, Hunyadi leads his small but mighty army to the battlefield, sealing a hard-fought victory. In celebration, Pope Callixtus III orders that churches all over the world shall ring their bells every day at noon. And even today, more than five centuries later, they still do.

SERIES

6 x ONE HOUR | CRIME | ENGLISH

A stylish and colorful crime drama set in London in 1946 with a thoroughly modern sensibility and tone. Executive produced, created by, and starring Emmy Award winner Mark Gatiss (SHERLOCK, DOCTOR WHO).

BOOKISH

In London's Archangel Lane, there is a bookshop aptly, named after its eccentric but whip-smart owner, Book. A former military spy turned maverick detective, Book relishes helping the police solve their most complex murder cases. He lives happily with his sassy, exuberant wife, Trottie, who owns the wallpaper shop next door. Friends from childhood, they share a deep bond of love and respect for each other, but theirs is a 'lavender marriage' of mutual convenience. For Book is a gay man at a time when homosexuality is illegal. Blissfully happy at home, Book nevertheless carries with him a sadness, as the love of his life was betrayed and died in the war. When Jack, a young man with a past as an ex-convict, is sent to work at the bookshop, Book and Trottie welcome him into the family fold with open arms. But it's not long before Jack starts to suspect that his appointment was anything but random. Could their past and his be inextricably linked?

6 x ONE HOUR | CRIME | ENGLISH

In the historic city of York, Detective Bea Metcalf and young police archivist Patience Evans join forces to investigate unusual crimes in surprising settings. Starring Laura Fraser (BREAKING BAD, BETTER CALL SAUL) and Ella Maisy Purvis (A KIND OF SPARK).

PATIENCE

Two worlds are about to collide: Patience Evans, a young autistic woman, works in a clerical role in the basement of the York police station filing investigation records. She is an enigma; a profoundly intelligent, self-taught criminologist, able to spot clues that others simply do not see. Yet her talents go unnoticed. A chance meeting with Detective Inspector Bea Metcalf opens a door into a whole new world for her. Bea can see potential in Patience and her innate deductive skills, as well as the similarities she shares with her own son Alfie. Chaotic and unruly, Bea is the opposite to Patience. But despite plenty of squabble, they form a perfect team, dedicating their hearts and minds to solving the most complex of murders committed within this ancient city.

The story of Maxima's journey from early life in Argentina and New York to her engagement to Dutch Crown Prince Willem-Alexander. Based on Marcia Luyten's bestseller.

MAXIMA

Seville, 1999. From the moment the beautiful Argentine Maxima appears at the Dutch Crown Prince's side, she finds herself in the spotlight. But when Willem-Alexander asks her to marry him, the past catches up with her. Heated discussions erupt about her father's political career in the Argentinian Videla regime – something she never faced in her own circles. What allows Maxima to finally thrive at an old European court? And how can Maxima stay true to herself without giving up her family – or do these things not go together?

THIS IS GOING TO HURT meets 4 BLOCKS:
A high-octane medical drama set in Berlin's toughest emergency room.

KRANK BERLIN

Berlin. The emergency room of the city's toughest and most overcrowded hospital is once again under new management. But taking the lead in this chaotic environment is no small task for the young doctor, Zanna Parker, who is looking to start over in the big city after her private life imploded in Munich. When she tries to implement reforms, Zanna is confronted with resistance from the hospital staff. One of her fiercest adversaries is the rebellious emergency doctor Ben, who dabbles in any kind of pick-me-up that might help him push through his shift and away from his problems. Another challenge comes from the brilliant doctor but lone wolf Emina, who straight up threatens to leave the team. Underpaid, poorly equipped, chronically fatigued, and with an indispensable dose of black humor, the doctors on this ward must recognize that they are all in the same boat and pursuing a common goal: to save lives and to stand up to a merciless healthcare system.

8 x ONE HOUR | DRAMA, CRIME | SERBIAN

Based on true events, the assassination of the Serbian Prime Minister in 2003, and the ensuing investigation that marked a turning point in the history of the nation.

OPERATION SABRE

It's the year 2003. After the assassination of Serbian Prime Minister Đinđić, the country plunges into chaos. A state of emergency is declared. Danica, a young reporter on the rise, tries to investigate the real story behind it. And even though it puts a crosshair on his back, police inspector Ljuba, who is tasked with finding Đinđić's killer, is willing to help her. On the other side of the law, Uroš, a young petty criminal, is drawn into this deadly plot. He drove the getaway car for the killer, as he works for those who ordered the murder: the powerful and brutal Serbian Mafia. As it turns out, there is a deeply engrained network of corruption and criminals embedded within the government, which Đinđić tried to dismantle. Now, those searching for his killer are becoming targets themselves. The closer they get to the truth, the more they become victims of the system they are trying to expose...

Based on true stories of the times: A dramedy about the power of blue jeans and Rock'n'Roll in the U.S.S.R.

SOVIET JEANS

1979, Soviet Latvia. Behind the iron curtain, fierce propaganda against Western culture runs rampant. But Renars, avid Rock'n'Roll fan and petty criminal, is not impressed. Working as a costume tailor in a theatre, he trades Western jeans to make extra money. Doing so, he meets young Finnish theatre director Tina. But instead of selling her pants off her legs, the two instantly fall in love. Renars keeps stepping on the wrong toes and is committed to a mental asylum – where he starts an underground business to make fake Levi's jeans. He partners with the director of the asylum who makes a good profit out of this and in return promises Renars freedom. With Tina helping on the outside, the operation turns into a huge success and Renars becomes an anonymous underground legend. But his nemesis, KGB agent Maris, is in hot pursuit... Little by little, the jeans business is no longer only about his freedom. There is a greater cause – and Renars is the rebel at its center!

Freddy and Zeno are what you would call high school sweethearts. After 15 years, the pharmacist and the art restorer, both about to turn 30, still see eye to eye, even in the bedroom. Thus, Zeno is taken by surprise by Freddy's peculiar proposal: For 30 days, both are allowed to have sex with whomever they want. Zeno doesn't really get where that comes from but agrees half-heartedly. Ironically, Freddy's first date with her former professor ends in disaster, while Zeno breaks sexual ground during an unexpected threesome with a couple next door. Whenever Freddy and Zeno meet after their most awkward dates and absurd sex encounters, they eye each other's "success stories" and salacious bits with suspicion. Then again, chance encounters in between give rise to moments of tenderness. So, what will happen on day 30 +1? Will the emotional rollercoaster of enthusiasm and disappointment, excitement, and despair bring Freddy and Zeno closer together? Or was the experiment too much to ask?

Sweden's first ever high-end drama series for the LGBTQ-community, shot in cooperation with the organizers of the Stockholm Pride Parade. A story about breaking free and the chance to be who you want to be.

STOCKHOLM PRIDE

Dilan is a nerdy 18-year-old. He is also a hopeless romantic: He travels to Stockholm dreaming of a perfect Pride with his crush, Christoph – but Dilan hasn't told him so. Christoph's friends are all about polygamy, open relationships, and other things that make a wide eyed small-town virgin's head spin! To impress Christoph, Dilan tells some white lies. He wants to seem older, smarter, and more experienced. But the lies spin out of control... Dilan stays with his cousin Ari, a professional realtor and life of the party. Having suddenly dumped his on-and-off boyfriend, Ari seeks to forget the ghosts of the past and teach Dilan how he thinks Pride should really be enjoyed: on Grindr. Meanwhile, Ari's friend Nina, who loves people who (maybe) don't deserve it, is broken up with by her manipulative girlfriend. Nina is determined to win her back, while Ari thinks she should "move the f*** on." Can Nina get her toxic ex back? Can Ari outrun his past? And can Dilan win Christoph back in time for Pride?

Determined to get to the bottom of the brutal murder of a politician, star attorney Nikola finds himself sucked into a swamp of betrayal, conspiracy, and blackmail.

CHILDREN OF EVIL

The murder of the politician Radovan brings the Belgrade public and judiciary to a boil. The sheer brutality of the act, the maimed body, and a mysterious coin found in the victim's bloody hand are puzzling. Was it a ritual murder or just meant to look like one? Prime suspect is Radovan's bodyguard Dragan. Convinced he is just a fall guy to curtain a greater scheme, star defense attorney Nikola takes on the case. To add fuel to the fire, his opponent is his ex-girlfriend and aspiring public prosecutor Ana. Nikola succeeds in vindicating Dragan, only to find himself in a haze of betrayal, conspiracy, and blackmail. Then, the dodgy chief investigator Aleksa is murdered with a similar coin in his hand. Tracing the origin of the enigmatic ducat, Nikola comes across a crime from the past. Are the slayings part of a plot for revenge? When someone tries to frame Nikola for Aleksa's murder, he now must fight for his own freedom – and ultimately against someone he has trusted all along.

Once a film director, the luckless Bata now shoots vanity videos for crass starlets. He has just stooped to asking his mom for money when Una calls: She's the country's hottest TV host, and she wants to do an exclusive interview - with him, alone in his apartment! Bata is feeling lucky again. Until his apartment mysteriously explodes, the granny next door dies, and doctors say that Una's face may scar. Worse, Una didn't even care about Bata's work. She just needed to fill a slot. Bata seems doomed to a life sentence once his case goes to Inspector Trisic, the same guy who just had to solve the case of a missing zoo boar. As Bata faces hot-headed thugs in prison, Una is feted for bravery by Champagne-sipping colleagues - or is she losing her job? And while the city's clumsiest inspector surprises even himself by his accidental cleverness, a search for deeper meaning ensues as a flicker of true feeling ignites between Bata and Una...

It's 1929, the season is over. Instead of handling a house full of guests, Bella is preparing for the arrival of her father and sister, as well as her close friend Claudine, who plans to throw a launch party for her new perfume. It might seem quiet, but there is still plenty of drama. Cecil returns having just inherited a huge estate... and with the intention of divorcing Bella! She is thrilled at the prospect of having him out of her life for good but may face scrutiny from her judgmental father. Also, Bella must balance tensions with her estranged sister Amelia, her forbidden romance with Marco, the shocking return of Lucian, as well as embarking on a new business venture with Claudine. Life gets even more complicated when news of the Wall Street Crash arrives. Cecil is not only facing being unable to pay Bella her divorce settlement, but he has Danioni and the mob on his back. But while Bella fights to find a solution, Cecil fumes with revenge at Danioni and makes a deadly plan...

The empire José Antonio has built is crumbling. No sooner is he released from the hospital – minus a right leg and plus a prosthetic one – than Fausti declares all-out war on him. The very Fausti who betrayed him and who now sends José's little brother Sebas into a deadly trap, triggering a feud of raw ambition and bloody vengeance between both gang leaders, old and new. Now, anything goes. And absolutely no one is irreplaceable, except themselves. In this vein, José Antonio's business and family matters become more and more intertwined, leaving both in shambles at least temporarily, as he is forced to hide in Mexico to protect what he fought most to achieve: himself, his family, and his business. In the meantime, the rest of the "Los Miami" are forced to measure their steps and choose sides in order to survive in this new scenario where loyalty to the wrong contender might cost them their life, or preserve it.

When detective and new captain Marie quite unexpectedly shows up at her assigned precinct in the hilly hinterlands, jaws drop and cultures clash. No one here fancies an overambitious city girl who only kicks up dust. Let alone her two new colleagues Heino and Jennifer, who are used to taking it easy here. But no sooner has Marie pitched her tents, uhm, camper, than crime has this little village firmly in its grip: three potato princesses who are prone to go over dead bodies to save their inheritance... not only the pastry gets scorched in a quest of the new cake queen... a wayward variant of the werewolf walks abroad... love and peace can quickly turn into blood and thunder of Hippies gone wild... certainly equine nobility does not save from human nemesis. And while murder never sleeps, Marie's temporary punitive transfer could turn long-term – because after all, love is not a crime...

MAKARI

SICILIAN MYSTERIES

After having lost his high-powered job in Rome, Saverio returns to Sicily, to a place he held dearest since childhood: Makari. Among the crystal-clear sea, breathtaking landscapes, old acquaintances, and new friends, he rediscovers a great passion that had been dormant for years: that of the writer. In Makari, there is no shortage of stories to tell. In fact, a series of strange murders catch Saverio's interest. Like a true bloodhound, he starts sniffing out the criminals, never giving up on the search for the truth. When a boy is found dead, he can find the culprit. The patriarch of a rich family is murdered? No family secret is left uncovered, when Saverio is on the case. But Makari will offer Saverio not only the opportunity to test himself as a writer-investigator. It might just offer him true love as well...

SPLIT HOMICIDE

After an explosion kills the head of Split's homicide unit, Stascha Novak shows up as the new boss. Everyone dislikes the brash outsider until her cleverness converts enemies into allies.

SPLIT HOMICIDE

Stascha Novak takes over as Split's head of homicide, even though no one wants her there. Despised by her former colleagues in Zagreb, she's transferred away for a fast demotion. Distrusted by her new team of detectives, who are still mourning for their previous boss, she's undermined in her very first case: To identify who murdered her predecessor. Stascha's brusque manners seem to alienate everyone around her. Only Emil shows some faith in her. Despite losing the top spot to her, Emil begins to admire Stascha's dedication and to empathize with her personal struggles. Stascha learns she'll need to make friends quickly as she undertakes investigations every bit as dangerous as the one that killed the previous head of the unit.

BALTIC FILES

For Hamburg Chief Inspector Svenja, a job offer at the precinct in her hometown at the German-Danish border is a win-win. It allows her to look after her ill father, and to take a fresh look at the strained relationship with her girlfriend Sanne. Alas, her cheeky new colleague Antoine is pretty much the exact opposite of the level-headed Svenja. While his brash manners collide with her bossy tone, the two have no choice but to quickly get used to each other's quirks. The investigations into a washed-up body and the kidnapping of a boy put the duo's emerging team spirit to its first tests. Now, time must tell whether Svenja and Antoine manage to throw their reservations overboard and become the new power pair at the Baltic Sea.

Level-headed Chief Inspector Svenja and her cheeky new colleague Antoine are anything but alike, yet all bets are on that they will become the new dynamic duo at the Baltic coast.

Impulsive Xavi and confident beauty Fina: Barcelona's homicide team dives deep into the heart of the medieval city...

BARCELONA CRIME

With its expert and attractive crime squad run by Xavi Bonet and his charming partner Fina Valent, Barcelona can truly be proud of its homicide team: Xavi, independent, impulsive, enigmatic, with a well-functioning network of contacts on the city's dark side; and Fina, a single mother and self-confident beauty. They're never far behind the plotters and schemers who prefer to do their dark dealings after sunset. Their cases take them throughout the Catalan metropolis – out to its suburbs and deep into the heart of the medieval city. With puzzling mysteries waiting to be solved, such as the student who died of poisoning and left just about no clues and even more murders imminent, Xavi and Fina have lots to do before this and other crimes are mercilessly stopped.

Inspector Dupin is relocated from Paris to provincial Brittany: a fish out of water! Surprisingly, murders are quite imaginative here...

INSPECTOR DUPIN

Brittany is seen by some as the end of the world. Like homicide inspector Georges Dupin, who has been relocated there from Paris. With his fish allergy and fear of the ocean, he feels like, well, a fish out of water... Fortunately, his charm and warmth help him crack the shells of the most silent Bretons – and win over his new colleagues, a jokester, a rookie, and a dependable girl Friday. Dupin is surprised by how imaginative the murders are in Brittany. A real and a fake Gauguin take Dupin back to the 19th century... a journalist bites off more than she can chew of a deadly secret... a peaceful island will do anything to keep a "vacation paradise" off of it... an eccentric former actress finds a body which disappears into thin air... myths of a sunken city in the sea, seemingly connected to the murder of a young couple... At least the rugged, majestic landscapes of Brittany provide an invigorating backdrop to Dupin's adventures!

ALLMEN

Generous, expensive taste, broke: this combination does not bode well. Allmen is a man out of luck with a taste for the finer things in life. So he now must turn to stealing: Possessions are fleeting, so why shouldn't he help moving them around? Unveiling a larger crime in the process, he discovers his talent for sleuthing. Allmen now wants to retrieve stolen art, attracting dark forces behind the shiny facade of Europe's upper class. The higher the stakes, the more ruthless the criminals! Dodging bullets and creditors alike, Allmen loves the adventure and even manages to help out the less fortunate. And his loyal servant Carlos does his best to keep him grounded – these two will find a way out, no matter how many guns are pointed at them.

MONEY. MURDER. ZURICH.

Maybe you can't make a killing in Zurich anymore, but it's still possible to kill and get killed... Attorney Thomas Borchert is back in his native Zurich. And if you need an ace lawyer specialized in financial manipulation, embezzlement, money laundering and the latest offshore scheme, he's your man. In fact, he knows both sides of the law pretty well, since he was fired without notice by his employer and charged with accepting astronomical bribes in a scandal in South America. Back in Zurich, Borchert wants to clear his name and find out who put the blame on him. Fleeing from the jurisdiction of the German authorities, he sets up his legal practice in a rickety trailer on his family's property in Zurich.

Disgraced white-collar lawyer Borchert is back in his native Zurich, on the run from German authorities. He sets out to clear his name, with reluctant help of his idealistic assistant – discovering larger crimes in the process...

Knowing his kind-of-backwoods hometown like the back of his hand, overweight small-town cop Frank Koops can be a real asset to solving crimes that leave others at a loss.

THE MOUNTAIN'S WHISPER

At first glance, Frank Koops is not much to look at – the overweight small-town cop has a huge problem hitting a target and requires lots of practice at the shooting range. But when push comes to shove, Koops might just show you what he's made of! Knowing his kind-of-backwoods hometown like the back of his hand, he can be a real asset to solving crimes that leave others at a loss. And so he is hot on the trail when 1.4 million Euros from a bank robbery vanish, or is the only one to keep a key witness safe when the mafia tries to murder her at any cost. One thing is for sure; this cop has a lot more going on than you might expect...

AT HOME IN THE MOUNTAINS

The family feud has gone on for decades. Sebastian cannot forgive his former friend Lorenz for causing his son's accidental death. Nor can Lorenz forgive himself. His daughter Lisa, a freshly baked lawyer, is resolved to take the feud to court. Although emotions run high as old wounds are reopened, the men seem ready to reconcile. Yet conflict is still rife between their sons and daughters. An impulsive one-night stand makes Marie question a lifelong hatred, while sparks fly between Lisa and Florian, once childhood sweethearts. Nor are things any less turbulent among their holiday guests, who bring along their own dramas.

HAMMARSKJÖLD - FIGHT FOR PEACE

NYC, 1961, the peak of the Cold War. Charismatic diplomat Dag Hammarskjöld has reached the pinnacle of his power, serving as Secretary General of the United Nations. After decolonization, he wants to bring peace to Africa, thwarting plans of both powerful entrepreneurs and world leaders to further exploit resources. His life is turned upside down when his old friend Peter shows up: Dag starts questioning his unprecedented devotion and dedication to his job and vision. When UN peacekeepers are killed in the Congo, he sees no other way than to impose peace by leading the UN troops on their first war mission. Well aware that his enemies might gather to plot against him, he boards a plane in a final attempt to negotiate a cease-fire...

BLACK BOX

For undisclosed reasons, the entrances and exits of a Berlin apartment building are blocked for the time being. No one gets in or out. Left in the dark by the police, the residents start to speculate. First, they assume there may be a bomb planted right outside the door. Then, a rumor about a criminal hiding in the courtyard spreads. Suspicion turns into insecurities which turn into aggression. Prejudices bring polarization, old conflicts come to light again and the residents start to suspect and denounce one another. In this situation of existential danger, they lose their mask of human decency. They start to show their real faces and each one of them pursues their own interests in this play of power and capitalism.

FAMILIAR

Dragos, a Romanian film director in his forties, decides to make a movie about his family’s emigration to Germany in the 80’s that followed his mother’s extramarital affair. Because the emigration was done under suspicious conditions, Dragos investigates undercover, with help from his former girlfriend, Ilinca. The collaboration brings the two closer together, however, complicating things with his fiancée. As Dragos delves deeper into his family’s past, secrets come to light, leading to revelations about certain ties with the Secret Service. Trapped in his own story and with his fiancée announcing her pregnancy, Dragos must make a decision that will impact the future of everyone involved.

A deeply touching and distinctively authentic story about a young man finally facing his addiction to alcohol, set between Berlin's famous bars and sober therapy rooms. Lead actor Frederick Lau (VICTORIA) delivers an outstanding performance.

2 HOURS | DRAMEDY | GERMAN

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Although in self-denial about his drinking problem, Mark seems to have easily mastered life between his demanding job as a construction manager and ram-bunctious forays into Berlin's nightlife. That is, until he is stopped by the police one night and loses his license until he has passed a medical-psychological examination. Mark bets his best friend Nadim that he won't drink any alcohol until he gets his driving license back, but he hasn't reckoned with meeting "partner in crime" Helena during the examination. At first, Mark is confident of victory, but soon, disillusionment follows in the truest sense of the word. Does Mark have to admit to himself that he has a more serious problem than he thought?

NOT A WORD

When her teenage son Lars is injured at school, Nina is faced with a dilemma: Can she leave behind her orchestra rehearsals to be there for him...in a possibly life-changing situation? She compromises: For five days, she will take Lars to the island in western France where they usually spend their summers. In winter, however, the island is windy, dark, and cold. In the small house at the beach, they are forced to face each other. Nina is worried: Is she sabotaging the career she has fought so hard for? Lars withdraws further, misunderstandings multiply, suppositions turn into suspicions: Was he a witness to a gruesome crime at school? Did he participate? When a storm cuts the last connection to the mainland, a dangerous confrontation ensues.
