The Couple Next Door

The dark wit and heightened style of THE WHITE LOTUS and the burning sexuality of THE AFFAIR mixed with the taut psychological plotlines of British dramas like THE FALL or HAPPY VALLEY.

Pregnant teacher Evie and her journalist partner Pete move into upmarket suburbia, ready to start a family, but they soon find a world of curtain twitching and status anxiety. Devastated by a late-term lost pregnancy and facing a life without kids, Evie finds herself transformed by grief and becomes uncharacteristically reckless. She and Pete begin an intense friendship with the couple next door, alpha traffic cop Danny and his wife, wellness hottie Becka, and before they know it, things get very out of control. Soon their bodies and their emotions are tangled up in a complex web which culminates in a huge sexual betrayal. All four of them descend into a dizzying spiral that leads to an act of violent revenge. THE COUPLE NEXT DOOR is an aspirational show that dares to ask the question 'What if?' - We never really know what goes on behind closed doors, but what would happen if we got the chance to join in, to indulge in our most forbidden desires?

SISI

Sisi faces a crucial challenge - between the fight for her own family, the longing for adventure, and the obligations at court, as power struggles in Europe, unrest in Vienna, and a conflict over their son once again put her and Franz's love to the test.

The fateful years of 1870 - 1873: Europe is on the threshold of modernity. Bismarck wins the war against Napoleon III, the cards in the European balance of power are reshuffled. France proclaims a republic, and the Austrian people also cry out for democracy. The imperial family is under enormous pressure, especially Franz and Sisi. Nothing less than the continuation of the monarchy is at stake. Franz feels pressured to send his 9-year-old son, Crown Prince Rudolf, to military training earlier than agreed with his wife. Sisi is horrified: She is convinced that her sensitive son will break in the face of brutal military training. Sisi sees no other option than to take her son from the barracks and flee Vienna with him. Franz must fight for the return of his wife, while workers' uprisings in Vienna intensify. In crisis-ridden France, Sisi has to decide whether to face her responsibilities back home or stand her ground as a mother...

SOMETHING UNDONE

True crime podcast creator Farid delves into the satanism-related Chaffey family murders of 1989, only to encounter bone-chilling parallels to other unsolved murders from that era.

For his hit true crime podcast, journalist Farid sets off to wintry Newfoundland to unveil the last secrets in the infamous Chaffey murder case. In 1989, family man Matthew allegedly slaughtered his wife and three kids before killing himself. The gruesome murders were linked to the "satanic panic" that was spreading throughout the world in the 1980s. A phenomenon that fired people's imagination so much that they would start to believe in the devil. From the beginning, Farid comes up against a wall of silence. No one here wants the old case that had ruined a once thriving small town to be dug up again. Just the elderly neighbor Sandra, who discovered the murders back then, is willing to talk to him. Despite the hostility Farid soon experiences firsthand, he presses on – only to find parallels to other unsolved murders from that time. When Sandra is found dead, everything looks as if Farid has opened Pandora's box – and with it the gateway to a grim earthly hell...

THE BEACH

Love and freedom infuse an idyllic commune on the shores of Crete in 1969, until a murder exposes the messy entanglements spurred on by the hippies.

Lazy days by the sea, firelit parties at the beach, groovy music, and no-strings love affairs along the cliffs of Matala. Hypatia, Harry, Maria, and Pete collide with other beautiful 20-somethings to create a heaven on Earth in the summer of '69. Local beauties Hypatia and Maria relish the carefree attitude of their newfound friends, while sexy outsiders Harry and Pete benevolently rule over the peaceful commune of pot-smoking hippies. No one owns anyone and hedonism extends to all, much to the disapproval of the island's greedy developers and some distrustful patriarchs. They eye the young people who cavort by the waves with envy and design. Soon a shadow descends upon the idyll when someone kills a young woman who straddles both worlds, the commune and the village. Yet even the straightlaced police officer assigned to investigate the crime finds he can't resist the temptations of paradise.

THRILLER SERIES”

GLAMOUR

The final season of the multi-awarded crime thriller. From the producers of DARK. Starring Julia Jentsch (SOPHIE SCHOLL: THE FINAL DAYS) and Nicholas Ofczarek (THE TEAM). Fate and a string of murders reunite Ellie and Gedeon, now bitter enemies, in their search for justice.

After German detective Ellie and her Austrian colleague Gedeon have become enemies, a series of mysterious murders brings them together one last time. Ellie cannot let go of the murder of her colleague Yela. She wants to bring Gedeon to justice for stealing the murder weapon. To do so, she even lets her new lover Rafael in on her plans. Gedeon, meanwhile, delves more and more into his past and secretly sets out to find Oskar, the tormentor of his childhood. When a burned woman's body is found in the Austrian border area, Ellie, as a liaison officer, is eager to work on the case. Soon, though, both Ellie and Gedeon will face a decision between retribution and forgiveness in their search for justice.

THE PIER's Irene Arcos in a dramatic guessing game of fragile truths and hidden lies. From Pau Freixas, co-creator and director of RED BAND SOCIETY.

Belmonte is in uproar with Ivan's supposed murderer, Macarena's husband Nestor, still on the loose. Or so they think. For Macarena's best friend, Ivan's mother Ana, knows very well that Nestor is dead. After all, Anna killed Nestor after he (falsely) confessed to having killed Ivan. Little does Anna know, however, that the bulk she and Macarena threw into the ocean didn't at all contain Nestor's body. Nestor had recovered from Anna's blow, but only Mac had noticed and had moved Nestor to a hut in the woods with the help of her brother Sergio. All fine and good? Hardly. Or else, what is Nestor's burned corpse doing in a hole in the ground in the hut? Who killed him after Mac and Sergio moved him there? And what is a suitcase full of cash doing in the back of Yolanda's car – Yolanda, whose husband Arturo had conned half Belmonte out of their money for false investments? And how did she find out Nestor was in the hut and what was she doing there? So many secrets, so many lies...

Realistic “Gangs of Madrid” story of the 1990s inspired by true events.

The empire José Antonio has built is crumbling. No sooner is he released from the hospital – minus a right leg and plus a prosthetic one – than Fausti declares all-out war on him. The very Fausti who betrayed him and who now sends José’s little brother Sebas into a deadly trap, triggering a feud of raw ambition and bloody vengeance between both gang leaders, old and new. Now, anything goes. And absolutely no one is irreplaceable, except themselves. In this vein, José Antonio’s business and family matters become more and more intertwined, leaving both in shambles at least temporarily, as he is forced to hide in Mexico to protect what he fought most to achieve: himself, his family, and his business. In the meantime, the rest of the “Los Miami” are forced to measure their steps and choose sides in order to survive in this new scenario where loyalty to the wrong contender might cost them their life, or preserve it.

Professor T

The brilliant but idiosyncratic Professor is back! Season 3 of the multi-awarded high-end primetime crime series starring Ben Miller, produced for ITV and PBS.

Every aspect of Professor Jasper Tempest's life is rigidly structured. Impeccably dressed and meticulously punctual, he lectures at the Cambridge Institute of Criminology. Thanks to a strictly regimented routine, his OCD and germaphobia are under control. But his buttoned-down world is slowly undone as one of his former students, Detective Sergeant Lisa Donckers, persuades him to assist in an investigation. Professor T's brilliant mind proves invaluable, but cracks in his carefully constructed, emotionless shell begin to appear. Working with the fiery, occasionally chaotic Lisa drags him out of his comfort zone and forces him to confront his suppressed feelings for an old flame, Detective Chief Inspector Christina Brand. And when he moves back into his dusty and derelict family home – an uncharacteristically irrational decision – he finds it difficult to escape the influence of his imperious mother, Adelaide: They share a harrowing family secret that has cast a long shadow over both their lives...

Sarajevo prosecutor and single mother Nevena's latest case hits close to home: A teenage boy from the same school as her son Dino has committed suicide. Nevena attracts bad publicity when the bereaved father criticizes her slow investigation, yet she earns little sympathy for her understaffed department or impending divorce. Soon, Nevena learns the school may be hiding abuse among its students, and consumed by concern for Dino, Nevena is blindsided when the victim's father names her son as an abuser. Driven by motherly love and moral responsibility, Nevena desperately seeks facts in an increasingly hostile environment. She knows that in a society where justice is controlled by wealth and a male political elite, her sole allies in her hunt for the truth remain an old flame and a new coworker who reports to her superior behind her back. But the fact finding that makes Nevena so good at her job pits her against the son she fears she can no longer trust.

Shot in war-torn Ukraine, a harrowing story that takes the viewer into the devastating heart of the ongoing crisis. A story told by those living through it.

Ukraine, February 2022. The war has started. Lydia is an experienced therapist. Besides practice, she maintains her social media and answers questions that concern her subscribers. Privately, her life is in disarray: She is trying to get divorced from her husband Dmytro, who not only cheated on her, but is making her attempt for a new start extra difficult, delaying the proceedings. On her way to achieve this, Lydia picks up a young woman. What follows is an odyssey, that will change her and her passengers' lives: Each person Lydia picks up not only has to deal with the harrowing struggles brought on by Russia's aggression, but also very personal dramas, that intertwine with her own life. And while her daughter urges her to flee the country, Lydia has found a new purpose – bringing people to safety. She not only risks her life, but slowly uncovers the dark doings of her husband: corruption, deceit, and the real reason for the death of her sister...

A body is found at the National Museum in Sarajevo. Chief Inspector Edib Pašić, a broken man in a broken city where war trauma is still palpable, sets out to investigate alongside his loyal colleague Mido. Was it murder or an accident? Even before forensics can provide answers, the body is stolen, as is the museum's most valuable artefact, the Haggadah. The ensuing questions become overwhelming. Who could have an interest in stealing this inalienable holy scripture? Why is Ajla, the investigative journalist who happened to be at the crime scene, encountering obstacles from higher authorities? And what part does Senci, Edib's inscrutable war comrade who was released from prison that very day, play in all of this? After a tragic death that hits close to Edib and is related to the case, events come crashing down. Burdened with grief, he must once again summon all his strength to untangle a web of hidden motives, corruption, and international crime.

November 2022. The war in Ukraine has triggered a flood of refugees, and Croatia is on the brink of entering the European Schengen zone. Olga and her sister Alina are neck deep in humanitarian work to help those affected by the war. Vesna and Stibor are searching for evidence that is supposed to help bring Horvatic to justice in the sex trafficking case. Unexpected help comes from Mila, a mysterious agent from Belgrade. While Olga is looking for a way out of her marriage, a series of murders linked to the trafficking of underage girls awakens ghosts from the dark past of Croatian politics. All of them are facing an international conspiracy involving the theft of humanitarian funds and smuggling of military aid for Ukraine; and especially for Olga, it becomes a struggle to keep her personal life at balance.

SAXON WATERS

Despite the seeming calm on the banks of the river Elbe, the precinct's four police inspectors have their hands full every day – and sometimes navigate themselves in deep waters.

As tranquil as the river Elbe may pass their provincial Saxon water police station, its four inspectors have little time for idleness. In the wake of crime, the level-headed chief Maïke runs the precinct with a steady hand. Jack-of-all-trades Sami holds the fort and keeps the station vessel afloat. The up-and-ana and Moritz not only have the looks but also the wits and the brains, which they put to good use in their cases: A mysterious death by drowning that leaves the quartet breathless... A fatal fishing trip, a secret love affair, and false confessions... A creepy hostage situation that, despite all deceptive calm, dramatically exposes the risks of their job... And when quarrels with their colleagues from the other side of the border cause even more turbulent waters, the four are fortunate to have each other's backs. Because they really are not just colleagues – they are a close-knit family.

Concordia is the municipality of the future: a town built on surveillance and data collection – not nefarious self-serving purposes but for the greater good of society and its citizens. Its leadership's sole goal is to create a freer, fairer, and more humane society – for today and tomorrow. By its 20th anniversary, Concordia is thriving – an indisputable success. It's on the verge of expansion when twin catastrophes strike: the first ever murder and a hack of the town's impenetrable AI. Together, these events compromise the very foundation of the Concordia project – and undermine any possibility of expansion. As the town's investigation unfolds, the story becomes a race against time – to fix the hack, solve the murder, and get the expansion over the line. However, the team soon find themselves staring down a deeply disturbing original sin – a sin that undermines the promise of Concordia far more than any of these threats ever could...

Based on true events, the sinking of the MS Estonia, one of the deadliest maritime disasters in European history. Not only showing the scale of this unsolved tragedy, the series also finally sheds a light on what really happened by telling the story from different perspectives.

Just after midnight on September 28, 1994, the MS Estonia is caught in a catastrophic storm off the coast of Finland. Despite a dramatic rescue operation under the most difficult conditions, the ship sinks within 30 minutes, sweeping 852 souls to their deaths. As the tragedy unfolds, pressing questions surface: How could this happen? Was it human or technical failure? Who can, indeed, must, be held accountable? The JAIC investigation committee, including acclaimed marine engineer, yet novice inquirer, Henri Peltonen, is determined to unveil the cause of the disaster. As conflicting interests and suspicions of a cover-up emerge, the grief of the survivors and the bereaved is at risk to be forgotten. Eventually, Henri, as the only remaining member of the commission, continues to fight tirelessly for satisfactory explanations. Still, with years of investigations and no one to blame, do we really have to live with the fact that “the truth lies beneath the waves,” as one mourner puts it?

ELENA FERRANTE | NEW YORK TIMES INTERVIEW

Based on Elsa Morante's bestselling novel that is one of the most iconic and critically acclaimed of the 20th century, published in two dozen languages.

Ida Ramundo is the widowed mother of 15-year-old teenager Nino in Rome during WWII. She has a secret: Ida is of Jewish descent. But when she is assaulted by a German army soldier, things turn from bad to worse. In pain, dismay, and ashamed, Ida discovers she is pregnant, and, nine months later, secretly gives birth to another boy, who will be lovingly nicknamed Useppe. The family is further shaken by the events of the war: Nino decides to leave for the front to fight the Fascists, leaving his mother and little Useppe in an apartment in Rome's San Lorenzo neighborhood to cope with the Nazi occupation and roundups. In the July 1943 bombing, Ida loses everything and is forced to leave. But the moments of deep humanity Ida will experience along the way serve as a guiding light through the struggle for her own survival and that of her child.

An unsparing letter from David, who died far too soon from a terminal illness, confronts the bereaved with bitter truths they must battle now – or one day take to their own graves.

In his prime, David learns he's terminally ill. Triggered by a visit from an estranged childhood friend shortly before his passing, David must come to terms with long-repressed truths. As must his devastated family and friends, who are confronted with a letter from David to be read at his funeral. Instead of finding solace in comforting words, the mourners are met with unsettling doubts and bitter realities: David's sister, whose unconditional commitment to truth may have done more harm than good... A 'friend for life' who always was a competitor rather than a companion... David's mother, whose façade after a lifetime of humiliation seems to be cracking at last... His wife, haunted by the fear that a decades-old secret may come to light... And his only, long-lost son, now grappling with the decision if a past grievance should also be buried. Nothing remains without consequences! For David, this truth comes too late. Who among the bereaved will have the courage to face its weight?

Based on an extraordinary, incredible true story: A department store extortionist fooled an entire nation in late 1980's Germany and became an international media sensation, labelled as the “DuckTales Bandit” by The New Yorker.

Berlin, 1988. How to overcome an existential crisis as a failing artist, forced to spray-paint cars to make ends meet? Arno has the answer! A talented tinkerer, he uses his creativity for his extraordinary new purpose in life: Building bombs in his kitchen and setting them off in high-end department stores during the night as leverage for extortion. But what proves more difficult is evading the authorities. Detectives Çoban and Strack are hot on Arno's heels, who has escaped with half a million. The man is fooling the police under his new alias “Scrooge McDuck”, leading to one of the most spectacular extortion cases in German criminal history. But Arno soon learns that money can't buy happiness, despite the promises of capitalism. Now back to square one, he disappears – but Arno will return to ask for more... A real-life case of a man of two minds, who became enemy of the state and folk hero at the same time.

The tragically beautiful biopic about the Italian poetess Alda Merini. From the producer of the multiple Oscar®-winning LIFE IS BEAUTIFUL.

Brash yet tormented, Alda ekes out a living with her writing from her squalid quarters in Milan. She sets her soul to paper to create magnificently tender poems, unburdening the pain endured from years in mental institutions. The stories come tumbling out when she meets the young Arnaldo one night at a reading. They form an unlikely friendship, she at the end of her life and he at the prime of his. Arnaldo listens raptly as Alda describes her early success, her tumultuous love life, and her struggles with mental health, which lead her four daughters into foster care. Alda tenuously threads her way back to reality in this poignant, often humorous biopic.

Inspector Dupin is relocated from Paris to provincial Brittany: a fish out of water! Surprisingly, murders are quite imaginative here...

Brittany is seen by some as the end of the world. Like homicide inspector Georges Dupin, who has been relocated there from Paris. With his fish allergy and fear of the ocean, he feels like, well, a fish out of water... Fortunately, his charm and warmth help him crack the shells of the most silent Bretons – and win over his new colleagues, a jokester, a rookie, and a dependable girl Friday. Dupin is surprised by how imaginative the murders are in Brittany. A real and a fake Gauguin take Dupin back to the 19th century... a journalist bites off more than she can chew of a deadly secret... a peaceful island will do anything to keep a „vacation paradise“ off of it... an eccentric former actress finds a body which disappears into thin air... myths of a sunken city in the sea, seemingly connected to the murder of a young couple... At least the rugged, majestic landscapes of Brittany provide an invigorating backdrop to Dupin's adventures!

Impulsive Xavi and confident beauty Fina: Barcelona's homicide team dives deep into the heart of the medieval city...

With its expert and attractive crime squad run by Xavi Bonet and his charming partner Fina Valent, Barcelona can truly be proud of its homicide team: Xavi, independent, impulsive, enigmatic, with a well-functioning network of contacts on the city's dark side; and Fina, a single mother and self-confident beauty. They're never far behind the plotters and schemers who prefer to do their dark dealings after sunset. Their cases take them throughout the Catalan metropolis – out to its suburbs and deep into the heart of the medieval city. With puzzling mysteries waiting to be solved, such as the student who died of poisoning and left just about no clues and even more murders imminent, Xavi and Fina have lots to do before this and other crimes are mercilessly stopped.

Ten years after an emotional breakdown, Cathrin finds herself once again working with the Galway police as a criminal psychologist.

For years, Cathrin worked as a criminal psychologist, often on cases together with her husband Liam, a police officer. But one day ten years ago, Liam just vanished from the face of the earth. It took all of Cathrin's strength and the support of her son Paul to get back on her feet after her emotional collapse and fall into alcoholism. Working in private practice ever since, she is unexpectedly thrown back into her old life when she finds herself increasingly drawn back into assisting the Galway police. And when old agonies resurface, Cathrin is determined to uncover the truth...

An overwhelmed father runs up against his acceptance of his child's search for identity. A heartwarming story full of courage, honesty, and humorous nuances.

Ever since Ben has been living away from his ex-wife Mira and their children Oskar and Erna, his life has fallen apart. Alone in his semidetached house, he drags himself through sleepless nights and starts the day with muesli and beer. Unexpectedly, Ben gets a second chance to prove that he can be a good father: When the heavily pregnant Mira is in hospital, his children temporarily move in with him. However, things don't go quite according to plan. Ben realizes as he opens the suitcases. Because there it is: Oskar's dress. And with this innocent dress, Ben and his conventionally messed-up family embark on an adventure at the end of which everything is different – and no one is the same anymore.

Hugely popular actress and director Karoline Herfurth, tells a sometimes tragic, often hauntingly serious, yet always heartfelt comedy about a young woman and her desire to have children – with or without a partner.

What to do if the biological clock is ticking and there is no suitable partner in sight? Karla is 39, radio host of a nightly music show and once again single. She longs to have a child, to finally start a real family, but finding a partner under time pressure isn't easy. She decides to fulfill her dream on her own. And suddenly everyone has an opinion: her divorced parents, her siblings, her friends, even her neighbors, even though all of them are entangled in their own complicated situations. Only her best friend Senay supports her with help, advice, and the right questions. But fate intervenes when Karla meets the “much-too-young” Ole, who doesn't quite fit into her plans and turns everything upside down.

A charming, funny, and deeply moving film about growing up in a very special family. Based on an internationally bestselling novel.

Growing up on the grounds of one of Germany's largest psychiatric hospitals is somehow – different. For Joachim, the director's youngest son, the patients are like family. They are also much nicer to him than his two older brothers, who drive him into fits of rage. His mother, painting watercolors, longs for Italian summer nights instead of constant German rain, while his father secretly, but not discreetly enough, goes his own way. But while Joachim slowly grows up, his world, not only through the loss of his first love, gets more and more cracks...

A subtle and charming tragicomic story set admits the political upheaval of the economic crises. From the director of the award-winning documentary OUR LAST TANGO.

Buenos Aires, November 2001. Argentina is embroiled in crisis. The country's economy is stagnating while the anger and distrust of the Argentinian people towards their corrupt government is growing steadily. Amid these troubled times, the Vecinos de Pompeya – a five-piece tango band – are trying to keep their heads above water. They usually perform in a small, poorly attended pub and are often paid with empanadas instead of pesos. But what can they do? Leave the country? That's exactly what Julio the bandoneon player has in mind. He plans to emigrate to Germany together with his daughter Paula and his mother Dorothea. Julio sets about taking care of his last affairs in Buenos Aires – but he can't get away from the city so easily.

Based on real events that inspired a whole generation of young Norwegians to stand up. A gripping and moving portrayal of the indigenous people's struggle for survival.

During summer 1979, Ester moves to Alta in Northern Norway to begin teaching at an elementary school. Like many Sámi at the time, she is ashamed of her heritage and conceals her ethnicity. Ester goes to great lengths to fit in, even joining in with the derogatory jokes. When her cousin Mikkhal takes her to a camp by the Alta River, where people are demonstrating against the building of a dam, Ester learns how the fight for the river is also a revolt against the years of brutal racism and discrimination against her people. After a major confrontation with the police, Mikkhal and some other Sámi decide to go to Oslo to hunger strike in front of the Parliament. Knowing what is at stake, Ester realises it is time to make a stand...

Anxiety, humor, and poignancy resonate across generational and any other borders in this amazingly accomplished and inventive debut.

In the standstill of the pandemic summer, a young couple wants a fresh start, moving from Hanover to Berlin. Lisa is an on-the-rise doctor bracing herself for a new position, Clemens is a talented but unsuccessful singer-songwriter crippled by self-doubts. To say goodbye, they host a dinner party in their now empty flat. But good friends cancel — and uninvited guests show up. As the attendees start eying each other's achievements, the evening slowly escalates, leading to an emotional crash that uncovers misunderstandings, rivalries, animosities, and anxieties.

Three stories about the impossibility of love, from the acclaimed director of IN THE AISLES.

A snack bar owner and his Muslim neighbor are smoking in the stairwell at night. Her husband is his good friend. They draw closer and look out over the city to the dark satellites, the brutalist concrete buildings on the outskirts, relics of the GDR. A security guard watches over Objekt 95, a satellite town many foreigners call home. On patrol at night, he meets a young Ukrainian woman who fled the war. He wants to protect her, while his friend, the “old security guard”, radios to him from an abandoned Russian barrack. A woman from the train cleaning service drinks in a bar after her night shift. There, she meets a hairdresser. Every night they spend together, her desire grows for this woman who is as lonely as she is.

One song. Two choices. Three fates.

Idealistic 16-year-old singers Ella, Yasmin, and Dalina dream of making it big in Tel Aviv with their band Talata. They sure make an unlikely trio: Ella is Jewish, Yasmin is Muslim, and Dalina is an African asylum seeker. People constantly have the wrong idea about who the girls are and what they want. Instead of getting mad about prejudice and racism, however, the friends write songs about it. Songs so good that they win an audition to a TV singing contest! But the problems come quickly: Ella must convince her strict father to let her sing. Yasmin is stuck trying to get her younger brother out of crime. And Dalina can't even make it to practice without a valid visa. Yet when the show's producers tell them to hide their heritage and to rewrite their songs to attract a larger audience, it is a step too far. But although they have to overcome great challenges, they will not go back to their old lives without knowing they've tried everything they could!
