Dear Friends and Partners,

2020 has brought many changes and challenges. As big markets have turned into hybrid and virtual-only events, we continue our digital strategy introduced back in April as one of the first in the industry. For the first time, Mipcom will be accompanied by Beta Screenings and, of course, our Beta Brunch will again move online as a virtual event.

At this year's Canneseries competition, Beta Film again has a strong showing, with all but three competition titles. Inspired by true events, ATLANTIC CROSSING stars multi-awarded Sofia Helin as Norwegian Crown Princess Märtha and Golden Globe®-winning and twice Emmy®-nominated legendary actor Kyle MacLachlan as President Roosevelt. The limited series will celebrate its world premiere.

The bittersweet dramedy series 257 REASONS TO LIVE revolves around the truly unbreakable and charming Zhenya. Due to the successful launch of the first season, a second one is on its way for early 2021.

Lastly, CRYPTID, the first-ever Nordic YA supernatural short-form series will also celebrate its Canneseries world premiere.

Speaking of YA: don't miss out on ALIVE AND KICKING, the new series by Albert Espinosa, creator of RED BAND SOCIETY, and the gripping drama series THE SEA BEYOND set in Naples about a very unlikely friendship in the rough setting of a youth prison.

Beta Film has even more to celebrate: The exciting mystery thriller series DEAD MOUNTAIN, based on the de-classified files of the real-life Dyatlov Pass incident will also celebrate its world premiere. Just back from San Sebastian and Zurich, TELL ME WHO I AM, a limited series based on the global bestseller "Dime Quién Soy" by Julia Navarro, as well as LABYRINTH OF PEACE, the high-budget portrait of an industrial family dynasty at Europe's "zero hour", will be exclusively available for international buyers for the first time ever.

And there is much more to come for 2021 with a great variety of upcoming productions. We are looking forward to seeing you again soon!

Stay safe.

DEAD MOUNTAIN

THE DYATLOV PASS INCIDENT

Based on the de-classified files of the real-life case that had people spinning wild theories all over the world for more than 60 years, ranging from avalanches, to secret weapon tests, to alien interference.

January 1959, Soviet Union. In the icy Ural Mountains, a group of nine students sets out on a ski trek. Even though they all are well-experienced hikers, they never reach their destination. As their bodies turn up a month later, it leaves local investigators puzzled.

Their tent was cut open from the inside, they are found frozen stiff in their underwear spread around the camp, some are even partially mangled. Whom or what did they run from? Why did they die, and how?

When Oleg, a KGB major, arrives in the province, his inquiry is to be held strictly confidential. Troubled by his past as a WWII veteran, he has a sixth sense and death seems to follow him around as he digs deeper into the mysterious incident. With the help of Katya, the local medical examiner, Oleg is hell-bent on finding the truth.

But the more he learns, the more it becomes clear: The reason the students died will never see the light of day. No one can ever know what really happened. No one. Except him.

The SEA BEYOND

THEY CAN'T LOCK AWAY YOUR DREAMS.

In a juvenile detention center at the Gulf of Naples, the inmates are dealing with power structures and adult expectations. Yet being locked up does not stop them from dreaming of a better tomorrow.

Naples: still an organized crime stronghold. For many teenagers, doing time is part of their “job”. Yet Filippo and Carmine never imagined themselves to go down this path. Filippo, who comes from a well-off family from the North, has dreams of becoming a musician. Carmine, from a Camorra family, wants to become a famous hairdresser instead of taking up the family business. Both of them have committed serious crimes, their dreams cut short as their freedom taken is away. Will they be strong enough to oppose the attacks from fellow detainee Ciro, the young, up-and-coming crime boss? What chances are there for young love, as Filippo falls for female inmate Naditza? Though the prison’s director Paola and correctional officer Massimo still try hard to help these “flawed” kids, the boys and girls behind bars are often left to fend for themselves. What they share though is a beautiful view over the sea promising a future in which their dreams may come true.

STAND BY ME meets ONE FLEW OVER THE CUCKOO'S NEST – the new series by Albert Espinosa, creator of RED BAND SOCIETY.

Four teens, Mickey, Yeray, Sam and Guada, are locked away on an island in a mental institution. Their bill of health is hefty: attention deficit disorder, obsessiveness, bipolar disorder, anxiety attacks, and sociopathic tendencies. When Guada has only one day left in the institution, all four of them make their escape to freedom.

The thrill of it makes them feel like they could conquer the world. But soon, they face a ton of problems: How to get off the island? How to get food? How to travel? Where to go next? And most importantly, how not to get caught. But despite all this, a common strength unites them: the power of imagination. It got them out and now it will get them to Ibiza, to Mickey's brother who is sure to take them in...

With a detective on their heels, the "fab four" miraculously overcome all obstacles with the help of their very own ingenuity, courage and wit – begging the question, who is truly sick: them or society locking them in.

JUST BEFORE CHRIST

A MOVISTAR+ ORIGINAL SERIES ~ CREATED BY MONTERO & MAIDAGAN

THE ADVENTURES OF ASTERIX meets MONTY PYTHON in a Roman legion in 31 B.C.

In the year 31 B.C., Manio Sempronius accidentally kills a senator and is sentenced to take his own life. Too cowardly to go through with it, he asks for his sentence to be changed to anything else, anything at all. So he is sent as a legionnaire to Thrace, the land where his father, Manio the Magnificent, forged his myth as a soldier. Manio is accompanied by his slave Agorastocles: a friend, a brother... and another burden. For Agorastocles has his own ambitions, which, like for every slave, can only be realized through his master. Meanwhile, Thrace itself has been quiet for decades, which is in part owed to it being run by an elderly, increasingly senile general more concerned with his daughter Valeria than matters of combat. Used to the constant buzz of Rome, Valeria has no trouble wrapping her dad around her finger. The arrival of Manio, however, will turn both the military stability of the area and the daily life of all stationed in the far away military post upside down in record time.

The first Spanish Western: A raw and authentic look at the struggle of survival by master of the craft Enrique Urbizu, the “Spanish Tarantino” and creator of GIGANTES.

Spain in the early 1800s. For 17 years, Lucia “La Llanera” has been imprisoned. Every year, she was taken to the garrote, pardoned at the last minute each time. Finally, she is set free, as is her son Juan, born and raised in her cell. For the first time, she will show Juan the outside world, though not his father. Lagartijo, bandit of all bandits, died in the same showdown that got Lucia behind bars so long ago. Now, she must realize that she and Juan are but pawns in the hands of the powers that be. Captured by Aceituno’s gang of outlaws, they are to be sold to none other than Lagartijo. The legend is alive! No one knows, however, that all competing gangs of bandoleros are part of a bigger scheme. The King wants to eliminate them all. Try as they may to live the freedom they have been denied for so long, Lucia and her son find themselves in the midst of a manhunt, while Juan falls in love for the very first time. When they pull their necks out of the noose yet again, no clear dividing line between friend and foe remains. Or was there ever?

Nobody knows exactly what happened, and the youths face a difficult decision. Should they wait for the authorities to recover the body and investigate the crime? Or, escape and take their fate into their own hands? The group doesn't have much in common with each other, though one thing unites them; all of them have had really bad experiences with the authorities and don't expect to be treated fairly.

Since they don't know who the perpetrator is, they only have one option: to run. Up the mountains, up the highest peaks of the Alps. It seems hopeless until they stumble onto a complex cave system where they can find shelter from wind, weather, and their pursuers – and form their own state.

LABYRINTH OF PEACE

Just home from military service, Egon takes his first steps in the Attorney General’s office. His mission: to hunt down escaped Nazis.

All three of them soon realize that the façade of peace is bought with the blood of the victims of war. Johann’s professional ambitions bring him closer to those who committed unspeakable war crimes. Klara risks her marriage while growing ever closer to Herschel, one of the survivors, who are all met with distrust by the locals. And Egon finds himself caught in a system that willingly turns a blind eye towards Nazi criminals for the sake of profit...

What is exclusion really like? A look, a comment, the lack of likes, a snap group you were not included or a birthday party you were not invited to: bullying is often invisible. Far too many kids and teens experience it each and every day. When her best friend Arin is welcomed into a friend group of popular girls, her best friend Oda is left increasingly isolated. By showing both perspectives, the victim's and of those doing the exclusion, kids will be able to relate to similar situations and see how they are amplified by social media.
